RESEARCH INTERESTS

Gooty Google Scholar Page

My research focuses on leadership at multiple levels of analyses with a specific focus on inclusion, values/ethics, and emotions in the process of leading. Specifically, I examine three themes that are deeply intertwined: 1) Creation of gender and race neutral definitions of leadership phenomena (e.g., identity, leader behavior, sensemaking); 2) The role of emotions such as pride, anger, sadness or compassion in motivating leaders and followers to action; and 3) The creation of shared realities (i.e., vision) via leader espoused values and expressed emotions in leader-follower relationships. My training and expertise are primarily in quantitative and multi-level research methods. My research, however, increasingly relies upon mixed methods and data science techniques in addition to my traditional view of leadership at multiple levels of analyses via quantitative methods.
